remote volunteer position application (non-reader)

Audio Information Network of Colorado is a statewide audio information service that provides access to local area newspapers and other print format materials through on air broadcasts for blind, visually impaired and print handicapped Coloradoans.

AINColorado has volunteer opportunities available for a variety of organizational support positions in areas remote to AINColorado administrative offices and recording studios located in Boulder Colorado. Some of these positions are in community outreach, marketing, materials and information presentation.

As we move to digital services AINColorado will have other positions open to assist staff in AINColorado equipment replacement in the field. If you would like to be considered for any of these current or future volunteer positions please leave your contact information and take a moment to fill in areas of expertise and/or interest.
